PREFACE

---

The favourable reception everywhere accorded to the New Edition (English-Irish) of "Sloinnte Gaeilge i nGáel" leads me to believe that the issue of a corresponding Irish-English version would be welcomed by the Irish public.

The transfer of the Post Office and other public services to Irish hands makes the issue of such a version eminently desirable, if not indeed absolutely necessary. Post Office officials, and especially rural postmen, will here have a handy book of reference which will enable them to avoid delay in handling correspondence addressed in Irish and minimise the chances of misdelivery.

But apart from its utility in the public services, which is its main purpose, it is hoped that the book will prove generally useful.

My thanks are due to my friend, Ríceáid Ó Foglaó, whose invaluable assistance I had on this, as on other occasions, in reading the proofs.

ENGLISH-IRISH

BY REV. P. WOULFE

SOME OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Father Woulfe's book is the only volume dealing entirely with Irish personal names, and it is no exaggeration to say that it is the cheapest book issued since the Irish Revival began.—The Limerick Leader.

Father Woulfe is to be congratulated on a book which is of personal interest to every Irish man and woman, whether they are Gaelic speakers or not. It is a marvel of cheapness.—The Catholic Herald.

One of the most interesting books which have come to us as a result of the Irish Revival.—The Derry Journal.

Father Woulfe's book on Irish Names and Surnames is the most useful book for Irish Irelanders that has been issued for a long time.—The Enniscorthy Guardian.

This useful publication contains the English and Irish equivalents of practically all the Christian and family names usually met with in the roll-call of our race.—The Irish Catholic.

It is evident that the author has taken great pains to verify the names; and he has cleared up not a few points that had hitherto been in doubt.—The Gaelic American.

Thorough research has enabled the author to compile this exhaustive list.—The Freeman's Journal.

An introductory chapter gives valuable information on the subject in general, and the book is of first importance to the student.—The Cork Examiner.

The preliminary essay on Irish Names and Surnames is well worth the price of the book, for it contains a store of information that would be almost inaccessible to the student and would be wholly beyond the ken of the average Irish reader. . . . The volume is indispensable to the Irish Ireland, and a valuable book of reference for Irish readers of every class.—The Irish Independent.

Father Woulfe's work bears on the face of it proofs of immense research ; the author has gathered together his material from every sort of document and monument, and from Irish speakers in every corner of Ireland—nay, more, he has sought out Irish speakers in the large cities of England and Scotland, and by their aid he has made many an unusual name to yield up its life history.—Waterford Archaeological Journal.

CHAPTER I—PERSONAL NAMES

§ 1—NATIVE NAMES

The Ancient Irish, like the Greeks and Hebrews, were called by only one name, as Δονσύρ, Τιαρμάντ, Τομνάλ, &c. ; but, for the sake of distinction, a cognomen derived from some personal peculiarity, or a patronymic formed by prefixing mac to the genitive case of the father's name, or ó to that of the grandfather, was sometimes added. Surnames in the modern sense were unknown in Ireland before the tenth century.

This usage necessitated a large number of names and led to the formation of a very varied and interesting Gaelic personal nomenclature. The Annals of the Four Masters alone contain nearly two thousand names, and perhaps as many more might be collected from genealogical books and other sources.

Some of these names, no doubt, lived only for a short time and have long since entirely disappeared ; but we have names, like Δού, Δρτ, Сian, Concобар, Τιαρμάնτ, Τομннл, Τοннсв, Еосаи, Еоѓан, &c., which have been in uninterrupted use from the earliest period of which we have any record down to the present day ; while many others, though long obsolete as Christian names, are still preserved in our surnames.

§ 2---CLASSIFICATION OF IRISH NAMES

Irish personal names may be divided according to form into several classes :

1. The first and oldest class consists of names formed by the union of two independent elements or themes,* both nouns and generally monosyllables, as :

ao-n- gur †(one-choice).	maon- gáel (gift-valour).
bláe- mac (blossom-son).	mu- gán (slave-seal)
braen- gáel (raven-valour).	muin- gáear (sea-choice).
cait- nia (battle-hero),	muin- caeo (sea-warrior),
cait- al (battle-ruler),	muin- gáel (sea-valour),
faoil- caeo (wolf-warrior),	taill- gáur (champion-choice).
flait- gáear (dominion-choice).	tuat- al (people-ruler), leap- gáur (sea-choice),	tuat- gáel (people-valour).

2. The second class comprises names formed by the union of two nouns, the first of which governs the second in the genitive case, as :

cú- caeo (hound of battle),
cú- maria (hound of the sea).
oonaill- léibe (Brown-man† of the mountain).
oub- eamna (Black-man of Eamain).
oub- riče (Black-man of peace),
maol- anfaió (chief of the storm).

The second noun sometimes takes the article, as .

cú-an- aois (hound of the fair).
siolla na n aoimhne (servant of the saints)

A large number of names of this class are compounds of Maol, or Siolla, and the name of God or a saint, as :

maolbhri <sup>i</sup> gue (servant of St. Brigid), maolpádraig (servant of St. Patrick).
siolla C <sup>ri</sup> ost (servant of Christ)
siolla Dé (servant of God).

*Such names are termed dithematic. The first element is called the prototheme, the second the deuterotheme. Some themes are exclusively protothemes, others exclusively deuterothemes; while others can be either protothemes or deuterothemes. Names containing only one element are termed monothematic.

† In order to show more clearly the composition of the names, the themes are separated by a hyphen.

‡Or Lord of the mountain.

Céile was used in the same way, as :

Céile Chríost (spouse of Christ),
Céile Peadarai (spouse of Peter).

Tuḃ is frequently compounded with a word, or place-name, preceded by the numeral ṭá, two, as :

Tuḃ-ṭá-ḃuirneann (Black of the two Burrens),
Tuḃ-ṭá-ċrióć (Black of the two territories),
Tuḃ-ṭá-inbean (Black of the two river mouths),
Tuḃ-ṭá-leiče (Black of the two sides, or halves).

Fear was similarly used, as :

Fear-ṭá-ċrióć (man of the two territories),

Cú, a hound, and figuratively a warrior or chieftain, enters largely into the composition of names of this class.

3. The third class, which comprises only a few names, consists of names formed from two nouns connected by a conjunctive particle, as :

Cú-ċan-máċair (motherless hound),
Táil-pe-oocair (difficult division).
Fear-ċan-aínm (nameless).

4. The fourth class, which is very numerous, comprises names formed by the union of a noun and a qualifying adjective, as :

Árto-ċal (high valour),	Tuḃ-ċú (black hound),
Ciaṁ-mac (black son),	Tuḃ-ċiolla (black lad),
Donn-ċeann (brown head),	Fionn-ḃárr (fair head),
Tuḃ-ċeann (black head),	Fionn-ċaoí (ruddy warrior).

Or the adjective may follow the noun, as :

ḃárr-ċionn (fair head),	Cú-tuḃ (black hound),
ḃran-tuḃ (black raven),	Siolla-tuḃ (black lad),
ceann-tuḃ (black head),	Maoil-caoīn (gentle chief).

5. The fifth class comprises "pet" names,* or shortened forms of the dithematic names already described, as :

ḃáirne, ḃáire, ḃarra for ḃáirr-ċionn or Fionn-ḃárr:
Fionna, Fionnu, Finnia for Fionn-ḃárr, or some other name commencing with Fionn-.

* Ordinary "pet" names are : Pat and Paddy for Patrick, Tom and Tommy for Thomas, Will and Willie for William.

Sometimes no trace of the second element remains, and the "pet" name is then undistinguishable from a monothematic name (next class below). Thus, for instance, Δοῦ may be a shortened form of Δεσγεῖν, Δοῦσατ, or Δοῦσας, or it may be a monothematic name and originally bestowed directly. Besides, the "pet" name may be either the prototheme or the deuterotheme. Βραν, for instance, may be short for Βραντού or Βρανσατ, or for Δρτβραν or Φαοιβραν or Νιαλιβραν; or it may be a monothematic name. "Pet" names are usually found with a diminutive termination, especially -άν. (See below, Class 8).

6. The sixth class consists of monothematic names, that is, names which contain only a single element and at the same time are not reduced forms of dithematic names, as :

Βρεάς (speckled, spotted),	Συαιρε (noble, generous),
Βρος (a badger),	Ρεάνν (a spear),
Εαόλα (fair, beautiful),	Σεαρηας (a foal, flighty),
Εαομ (gentle, loveable),	Σίονδα (silk, silken),
Κολμ (a dove),	Τεμηεαν (dark, grey).

7. The seventh class comprises derivatives, that is, names formed from other names, and from nouns and adjectives, by the aid of prefixes and suffixes, as :

Prefixes : Αἰν-έιριπ

Αἰν-γεῖν
Αἰν-μηρε,
Αἰτ-γεῖν,
Αν-ξαλ,
Αν-λυαν,
Εομ-ξαν,
Εομ-ξαλ,
Οιο-έν,
Οιο-μαρας,
Οο-έαρτας,
Εις-εαρτας,
Εο-ξαν,
Ραιη-ξεαλλας,
Ρο-ναρτας,
Σο-ξαρτας,
Συ-ιθνε,

Suffixes : Σατ-άς

Τύνασ-άς,
Βλορ-άς,
Λαΐη-αιό*,
Τομέ-αιόε,
Scol-αιήε,
Ιαοξ-αιηε,
Σιαη-όα,
Τυθ-όα,
Βρυαιο-εαύ,
Ριμ-εαύ,
Σιαιρ-νε,
Εοιν-νεάς,
Ενάιμ-ρεας,
Colp-τα,
Τυθ-τας,
Τροιξ-τεας.

*When the suffix is added to a dissyllabic name or word, contraction usually takes place.

8. The eighth class consists of diminutives. These are formed by the addition of the following terminations, viz. : -án* (eán), -agán† (-eagán), -éin, -ín, and -ós(-eos), as :

Ailseánán,	Bhrátagán,	Croíinín,	Maoúós,
Seallaclán,	Eocagán,	Dubín,	Sormós,
Tionmáineán,	Muirreasán,	Finnéin,	Muineós.

The same root word, or "pet" or monothematic name, has often several diminutive forms. Thus many have diminutives in -án and -agán, as :

Airt,	Airtán,‡	Airtagán,
Bran,	Branán,	Branagán,
Fionn,	Fionnán,	Fionnagán,
Flann,	Flannán,	Flannagán,
Niall,	Niallán,	Niallagán;

some in -án and -ín as :

Cár,	Cárán,	Cairín,
Cron,	Cronán,	Croíinín,
Sláir,	Sláirán,	Slairín,
Oír,	Oírán,	Oírín;

and a few in -án and -ós as :

Caoimh,	Caoimán,	Caoimós,
Colm,	Colmán,	Mocolmós.

A large number have three forms of diminutive, viz. : in -án, -ín, and -agán, as :

Ciar,	Ciarán,	Céirín,	Ciaragán,
Donn,	Donnán,	Duinnín,	Donnagán,
Dubh,	Dubhán,	Dubhín,	Dubhagán,
Oídar,	Oídaráin,	Uí Óirín,	Oídaráin;

*-án had originally the force of a patronymic, like the Greek -ides, and meant "son of."

† -agán is a double diminutive from -ós and -án.

‡ Many of these diminutives are "pet" names. Thus Airtagán (little storm) is best explained as a pet diminutive of Maoilánfaió (chief of the storm); Saoircín of Maoilgaoiú (chief of the wind); Sléibín of Donnphléiú (Lord of the mountain); Coigeanán of Cú cogaíó (hound of war); Naoimán (little saint) of Siolla na Naoim (servant of the saints).

also in -án, -óis, and -agán, as :

Δού,	Δούán,	Μαούός,*	Δούαγάν,
Σούμ,	Σούμán,	Σούμός,	Σούμαγάν;

and in -án, -ín, and -óis, as :

Εαρνά,	Εαρνán,	Ειρνín,	Μεαρνός.
--------	---------	---------	----------

There is also a diminutive form in -nat (modern -nait) used in the names of females and corresponding to -án in names of males.

Examples :

Male.	Female.
Δούán,	Δούnát,
Κιάnán,	Κιánnat,
Τάmán,	Τάmnat,
Σobán,	Σobnat,
Ούpán,	Ούápnat,
Οpán,	Οpnat,
Ρónán,	Ρónnat.

Some names take the article, as : Άn Cailbáé, Άn Coirnámaé, Άn Túbaltáé, Άn Φeárpórpéa, Άn Σiolla θub, &c.

§ 3—FOREIGN NAMES IN IRELAND

Probably all the names in use in Ireland before the fifth century were of Gaelic, or at least Celtic, origin ; but from that period onwards foreign names have been borrowed from time to time from the various nations with which Ireland was brought into contact, directly or indirectly, in the course of her history.

A number of names of Latin, Greek, and Hebrew origin came in with Christianity. They were almost exclusively Biblical names and the Greek and Latin names of saints ; but, strange to say, they were not adopted, to any considerable extent, as Christian names by our Gaelic ancestors. The few instances of their use recorded in the Annals and elsewhere show that they were, for the most part, borne only by monks and ecclesiastics, who had, we may not doubt, taken them at their monastic profession or ordination.

*The names of saints are sometimes preceded by mo, my, a term of endearment, and at the same time take the diminutive termination -óis as : μočaomós močeallós, močolmós. When the name begins with a vowel, the o of mo is elided and the m incorporated with the name, as maοóós, οve, &c.

Adam must have been in use and, in its diminutive form, Adamnan, was borne by the celebrated Abbot of Iona. Abel was somewhat of a favourite, and we have several instances of its use in the Annals. Noe gave name to two Irish saints. Joseph occurs once, as do Aaron and David. Of the names of the prophets, Daniel is of rather frequent occurrence ; and we had also Abdias and Habacuc.*

New Testament names are represented by John, for John the Baptist, always a favourite baptismal name among Christian nations, and an occasional Philip and Thomas. Of saintly names, we had Augustine, Donat, Hilary, Januarius, Liber, Martin, Natal, &c., all exceedingly rare.

John (Eóin) is apparently the only one of all these names that attained permanency. Patrick, the name of the national apostle, came into general use only at a comparatively late period, and its adoption even then was due to Danish and English influence. It is only in the thirteenth century that we first find it in use among Irishmen. Michael, another name of the same class, which now bids fair to rival in popularity the name of the national saint, was until a few centuries ago extremely rare in Ireland. Mary, the name of the Blessed Virgin, was not used at all until long after the Anglo-Norman invasion. Martha occurs once, in the eighth century, as the name of an Abbess of Kildare.

*See Annals of the Four Masters at the year 539 where a strange story is told of an Irishman of this name, which is scarcely surpassed by the adventure of his Hebrew namesake, as related in Daniel, XIV., 32 et seqq.

Strange as it may appear, it was the very reverence in which these names were held that prevented their more widespread adoption, our ancestors preferring to be known as the servants, rather than the namesakes, of the saintly men and women who bore them. Hence, instead of directly adopting the name of the saint, they formed from it a new name by prefixing to it the word máol* or Siolla† signifying servant or devotee, and names so formed were common in Ireland—those formed with máol from early Christian times. The following is a list of such names: ‡

- máol Úeanónin* (servant of Benignus),
- máol Eóin* (servant of John),
- máol Iosa* (servant of Jesus),
- máol Siúic* (servant of Cyriacus),
- máol Mártain* (servant of Martin),
- máol Mhícél* (servant of Michael),
- máol Muire* (servant of Mary),
- máol Phádraig* (servant of Patrick),
- máol Peadaidh* (servant of Peter),
- máol Póil* (servant of Paul),
- máol Seacláinn* (servant of Secundinus),
- Siolla Adamnán* (servant of Adamnan),
- Siolla Eóin* (servant of John),
- Siolla Iosa* (servant of Jesus),
- Siolla Steapán* (servant of Stephen),
- Siolla Mártain* (servant of Martin)
- Siolla Mhícél* (servant of Michael),
- Siolla Muire* (servant of Mary),
- Siolla Phádraig* (servant of Patrick),
- Siolla Peadaidh* (servant of Peter),
- Siolla Póil* (servant of Paul),
- Siolla Seacláinn* (servant of Secundinus),

**máol* originally meant bald, hence tonsured, and when prefixed to the name of a saint, the tonsured servant or devotee of that saint. It is now confused with the old word mál (Old Celtic maglos), a chief, and consequently has sometimes also that meaning, as in máolánpháidh, chief of the storm, máolcaoin, gentle chief &c.

† Siolla is probably derived from the Norse “ gisl,” a pledge or hostage. It only became common during the Danish period when it was largely used by the Northmen, on their conversion to Christianity, to form Christian names. In this connection it signifies servant or devotee. At other times it has

Many of these scriptural and saintly names, and others of the same origin, were again introduced as a later period by the Normans, when they passed into more general use. Hence, names of this class have sometimes two forms in Irish, according to the date and channel of introduction, the older form being used exclusively for the saint, and the more modern one for ordinary individuals of the name. Examples:

	Older Form.	Later Form.
Adam,	Áðam,	Áðam,
Mary,	Máire,	Máire,
John,	Eóin,	Seán, Seón,
Andrew,	Aindriéas,	Aindriú,
Stephen,	Stearán,	Stíabhrás,
Martin,	Mártan,	Máirtín, &c.

The British missionaries who accompanied St. Patrick to Ireland, and the Saxon saints and students who frequented the Irish schools, have left us a few names; but probably the only one that still survives as a Christian name is that of St. Beircheart (anglice Benjamin) of Tullylease.

Owing to intermarriage, and other alliances of friendship, many Danish and Norse names passed into Irish families during the ninth, tenth and eleventh centuries, and some of them became very popular. A few still survive as Christian names, and they have left us to be translated youth, boy, lad, &c., as: Siollaonub, the black youth, Siolláraonub, the red-haired lad, Siolla na neac, the horse-boy, &c.

† In the case of names like the present, in which the second element is a proper name, the initial letter of the second part may be a capital, or it may be written small and the second part itself joined on to the first, as Siolla Ónraig or Siolla Ónraig, maol mhuire or maolmhuire. After Siolla it is better to separate the second part when it commences with a vowel, as Siolla iorla, Siolla iarfachta. Similarly Cú Ulao, but genitive Conulao.

several important surnames. The following are the principal names of this class :

Αντασιού,
Αραλτ
Βημαδομή,
Εαρλυρ,
Τουβέσαլ,
Εανηας,
Σούτραιό,
Ιομάρ,
Λοέλαιν,

Μαξνυρ.
Οιρτίν.
Οιτίη,
Ραζναλ,
Ρυαιόρι,
Ρυαθρας,
Σιοεφραιό,
Σιτρεας,
Σομαιηλ, &c.

In the same manner Norman and English names became current in Irish families during the thirteenth and subsequent centuries. These have now almost completely supplanted the old Gaelic names.

The names borne by the Normans and by them introduced into Ireland were of three kinds : (1) names of Scandinavian origin which their ancestors had carried with them to Normandy ; (2) names of Germanic origin which the Frankish conquerors had brought across the Rhine and which had ousted the old Celtic and Latin names from France ; and (3) Biblical names and Latin and Greek names of saints, which the Normans began to adopt about the beginning of the eleventh century.

Together with these came in a few Celtic names from Brittany, a small number of Anglo-Saxon names, some Danish and Norse names from England, and one or two British or Welsh names. These were nearly all very rare and most of them soon died out. Of the Anglo-Saxon names, only two, Edmund and Edward, and these owing to special circumstances, survived. Alfred has been revived in recent times.

At the period of the Invasion, Frankish names were by far the most popular among the Normans, but Biblical and saintly names were coming rapidly into favour. The following is a list, in order of frequency, of the more common names borne by the early Anglo-Norman invaders, the Biblical and saintly names of Latin and Greek origin being printed in italics :

The following in alphabetical order were all very rare : Abraham, Adelard, Ailmer, Antony, Augustine, Brian, Clement, Constantine, Estmund, Eustace, Everard, Gocelin, Isaac, Leonard, Luke, Matthew, Miles, Milo, Odo, Osbern, Osmund, Pagan, Ponce, Randulf, Redmund Rodulf, Silvester, Turold, Ulf, Vincent.

The following names only came in, or at least became popular, at a later period : Bartholomew, Christopher, Francis, Gerald, George, Paul, Roland, Theobald.

Women's names among the Normans were all, or nearly all, of the Biblical or saintly class, as :

Agnes, Alice, Amelina, Anastasia, Annabella, Catherine, Cecily, Christina, Dorothy, Egidia, Eleanor, Evelyn, Frances, Honora, Isabella, Johanna, Matilda, Margaret, Susanna. The name Mary does not seem to have come into use in Ireland before the end of the 16th century. Brigid only began to be used about the same period.

The Anglo-Normans had several diminutive suffixes, viz. : -el, -et, -ot, (-at), -in, -on, (-en), -oc, -uc, -kin, and -cock. These were generally added to the shortened or "pet" form of the name, as : Martel, dim. of Martin ; Benet, dim. of Benedict ; Davet, dim. of David ; Adamot, dim. of Adam ; Milot, dim. of Miles ; Baldin, dim. of Baldwin ; Dobin, dim. of Dob (Robert) ;

Baldon, dim. of Baldwin ; Gibbon, dim. of Gilbert ; Paton, dim. of Patrick ; Davoc, dim. of David ; Jonoc, dim. of John ; Mayoc, dim. of Matthew ; Aduc, dim. of Adam ; Hobuc, dim. of Hob (Robert) ; Philbuc, dim. of Philip ; Robuc, dim. of Robert ; Tomuc, dim. of Thomas ; Adkin, dim. of Adam ; Baldkin, dim. of Baldwin ; Hobkin, dim. of Hob ; Hodgkin, dim. of Hodge, Roger ; Tomkin, dim. of Thomas ; Alcoc, dim. of Alan ; Simcoc, dim. of Simon, &c.

Not infrequently we find a double diminutive suffix, as :—elin, -elet, -inet, -elot, sometimes contracted to -lin, -let, -net, -lot, &c. Examples :—Gocelin, Hughelin, Hughelet, Hughelot, Hamelein, Hamelet, Hamlet, Robinet, Robnet, Tomelin, Tom.in, &c.

Religious motives have frequently led to the introduction of names of foreign saints. The Spanish name Iago (James) was brought to Ireland in the thirteenth or fourteenth century by pilgrims from the shrine of St. James at Compostella, and other names of foreign saints, as Aloysius, Alphonsus, Dominic, Agatha, Monica, Teresa, &c., have been adopted from time to time from similar motives. In England, a large number of new names from Holy Scripture was introduced by the Puritans, and some of these have found their way into Ireland.

It may be remarked that many foreign names found at present in Ireland are merely modern substitutes for Irish names which they are supposed to translate, but with which they have often little or no connection, as Cornelius for Conċoċa, Denis for Dónnċa, Daniel for Dómnall, Eneas for Āongúr, Eugene for Eoghan, Hugh for Áodh, Humphrey for Ámlaois, Jeremiah and Jerome for Tiāpmair, Malachy for Maol Seacáinn, Justin for Saejħreastac, Mor imer for Muirċeartac, Moses for Maos̄as, Myles for Maolmuiρ and Maol-mor̄a, Roger for Ruaidhri, Terence for Tiārċealbāc, Timothy for Taob̄ and Tomaltac, etc. Charles was an extremely rare name in Ireland until the early part of the 17th century when it began to be substituted in honour of Charles I., for several Irish names, such as Catal, Cataloim, Coimac, etc. Similarly, in the case of women's names, we have Abigail and Deborah for Sibnait, Agnes for Móir and Una, Dorothy for Oirpeann, Gertrude and Grace for Grianne, Mabel for Meadbh, Penelope for Fionnghuala, Sarah for Sorcha and Sabó, Winefred for Una, etc.

§ 4—COGNOMINA

A cognomen, or epithet, was frequently added to a name to distinguish different individuals of the same name. These cognomina were of three kinds :—

1. An adjective conveying personal description, as Coimac Cár, Dómhnall Báin, Eoghan Ruadh.
2. A substantive in -ac, denoting place of birth, residence, fosterage, etc., aois Muimhneac, Dómhnall Caománaç, Cóim Catánaç.
3. A noun in the genitive case, usually with the article, signifying place of origin, residence, or some other connection, as Briamh an Dhoile, Tarbh an Tréibe, Conn na mbocht.

§ 5—INTERCHANGE OF NAMES

A marked feature of our Irish name-system was the frequent interchange of names of the same or similar meaning. This was doubtless due to the fact that our ancestors paid attention to the meaning no less than to the form of their names.

The following classes of names are to a greater or less extent interchangeable :—

- (1) Variants of the same name, as AOÐÁN and MAOÐÓS, Colmán and Mocólmós, Íde and Míde.
- (2) A name and its diminutives, and the various diminutive forms among themselves, as : Þionnþárr and Þionntán, Fiacán and Feicín.
- (3) Names of the same signification, though differing in form, as : Þairrþionn and Þionnþárr.
- (4) Different names used for the same individual, as : Cártac and Mocuða.

§ 6—DECLENSION OF NAMES

The declension of names follows the ordinary rules for common nouns. The following points may, however, be noted :—

1. Many names belong to more than one declension.
2. A few names have in the course of time changed their declension.
3. Names of the fifth declension which form their genitive case by adding c or n, generally drop these letters in the spoken language.
4. Diminutives in -óS are masculine and invariable.
5. In the case of compound names, the part to be inflected depends on the nature of the compound. Sometimes both parts are inflected, as Cú Dubh, gen. Conduibh; sometimes the second only, as Dubcú, gen. Dubcon. When the second part is already in the genitive case the first alone changes, as Cú Ulad, gen. Con Ulad, Conulad.
6. The nominative case is sometimes used for the genitive, and vice versa.

A perusal of the list of surnames will show the genitive form of most names.

CHAPTER II—SURNAMES

§ I.—GAELIC SURNAMES

Gaelic surnames comprise surnames of Irish, Scottish-Gaelic, and Manx origin.

Irish surnames came into use gradually from about the middle of the tenth to the end of the thirteenth century, and were formed from the genitive case of the names of ancestors who flourished within that period, by prefixing Ó (also written Ua) or Mac (sometimes written Mac*), as :

Ó Óengáin,	mac Aodhaíin,
Ó hAodá,	mac Cárthaíś,
Ó Néill,	mac Uí Óili.

Ó literally signifies a grandson, and Mac a son : but in the wider sense which they have acquired in surnames both now mean any male descendant. The only difference between a surname commencing with Mac and one commencing with Ó is that the former was taken from the name of the father and the latter from that of the grandfather of the first person who bore the surname. Mac-surnames are, generally speaking, of later formation than Ó-surnames.

Surnames were frequently formed, not from the real name of the ancestor, but from some other designation, as rank, trade, occupation, etc., as :

Ó Gobánn (descendant of the smith),
Ó hiceadá (descendant of the healer),
mac an Óláí (son of the bard),
mac an tSeoileá (son of the craftsman).

The Gaels of Scotland belonged by race and language to the Irish nation, bore the same or similar personal names, and formed their surnames in the same manner as the Irish from the names or designations of their *Mac is used before vowels, the consonants C, S, L, N, and R, and the aspirated consonants B, D, F, M, S, and T, but not always even before these.

ancestors. Scottish-Gaelic surnames are, however, of much later date than Irish surnames. The instances of the use of Ó are very rare.*

The Manx language is closely allied to the Irish and Scottish-Gaelic. Manx surnames were formed in the same manner as Irish surnames, by prefixing mac. Ó, however, was not used. The modern spelling is very corrupt, mac being generally represented by an initial C or K.

The Danes and Norsemen who settled in Ireland in the ninth and tenth centuries took surnames after the Irish fashion, by prefixing Ó or mac to the genitive case of the names of their ancestors; but the surnames so formed are in nowise distinguishable from the surnames adopted about the same time by Irish families. What are called Danish surnames are merely surnames formed from a Danish eponym, which, however, owing to the interchange of names, was, at the period when surnames were formed, no longer a sure indication of nationality. The following are examples of this class of surname :

Ó hAraile,
Ó Ùruadair,
Ó DubhSail,

mac Ámlaoibh,
mac Iomair,
mac Oitir.

Many Scottish and Manx surnames are of this hybrid class.

*Down to the eighteenth century, the Irish and the Scottish Gaels had a common literary language, though the spoken tongues had diverged considerably. In that century Scottish Gaelic broke completely with the Irish and began a literary career of its own. The spelling of surnames in modern Scottish Gaelic is consequently somewhat different from what it would be in Irish. The Scottish surnames included in this book are given in the Irish spelling.

§ 2—SURNAMES OF THE SEAN-GAILL

The surnames brought into Ireland by the Anglo-Normans were of four kinds :—

- |                |                 |
|----------------|-----------------|
| 1. Patronymic. | 3. Occupative.  |
| 2. Local.      | 4. Descriptive. |

1. The Norman patronymic was formed by prefixing Fitz (a corruption of the French “fils,” Latin “filius”), denoting “son of,” as Fitz-Gerald, Fitz-Gibbon, Fitz-Herbert, Fitz-Simon. The English added “-son,” as Richardson, Williamson; or merely the genitive suffix “-s,” as Richards, Williams. Welsh patronymics were formed by prefixing “ap” or “ab,” from older “Map,” cognate with the Irish máic, which, when it came before a name beginning with a vowel or h, was in many instances incorporated with it, as Ab Evan, now Bevan; Ab Owen, now Bowen; Ap Howel, now Howell and Powell.

English surnames in “-s” and “-son,” and Welsh surnames in “Ap” were, however, at first extremely rare; they became common only at a much later date.* The type of patronymic most common among the Anglo-Normans was that in which the father’s name appears in its simple and unaltered form, without prefix or desinence. Fitz seems to have been dropped early.† The great bulk of Anglo-Norman patronymic surnames are of this type.

*The early Anglo-Norman invaders, coming as they did from Wales, were called Ūr̄eāchnaiḡ, or Welshmen, by the Irish; but Welshmen they certainly were not, at least to any appreciable extent, as the almost complete absence of Welsh Christian names from among them amply proves. English surnames in “s” and “son” were peculiar to the Danish districts in the North of England, from which few, if any, of the early invaders came.

† Nothing is more common at the present day in certain parts of the country than to hear a man designated no matter what his surname, as Maurice William or John James, meaning Maurice, son of William, or John, son of James. This is but a survival of the Norman practice.

The names from which these patronymic surnames were formed were of Norman, Anglo-Saxon, Norse, Danish, Flemish, Breton, Welsh, and even Irish origin.*

2. Local surnames were taken either from specific place names, or common local designations, or some local landmark; and the language in which they occur may be either Norman-French or English. If the surname was from a specific place name and the language Norman-French, the local element was preceded by "de"; if English, by "of," familiarly pronounced "a," as: Robert de Arcy, David de Barri, Torkaill of Kardif, Samsun of Stanlega. The local element may be the name of a country, province, county, city, town, village, or even farmstead. Surnames derived from places in Normandy alone denote Norman origin.

When the source of the surname was a common local designation, or mere landmark, the Normans prefixed "de la," "del," or "du"; the English "atte;" which became "atten" before a vowel, as Henry de la Chapelle, Richard de la Felda, John de la Hyde. Robert del Bois (du Bois), Robert atte Brigge, Gilbert atte Wode, Walter atten Angle, Simon atten Ashe. The local element may be either Norman-French or English or Welsh. †

3. Occupative surnames are those derived from office, profession, trade, or occupation generally. They were originally all common nouns, and usually Norman-French. The definite article "le," the English "the," was generally, but not always, prefixed, as: le Archer, le Baillif, le Botiller, le Boucher, le Erchedecne, le Marescall, the Miller.

4. Descriptive surnames are those which convey

* The name Colman which occurs in Domesday Book is an instance.

†A small number of surnames—perhaps not more than thirty—are formed after the Norman fashion from Irish place-names. These, however, were not brought in by the invaders, but taken by them from places where they settled in Ireland.

personal description, and they are of various kinds according to the different ways in which a person can be described. They are generally Norman-French or English, but we have a few surnames formed from Welsh and Anglo-Saxon nouns and adjectives.

Physical peculiarities are represented by "le Gras," "le Grant," "le Petit," "le Brun," "le White," "the Black"; mental and moral by "le Prut," "le Curteis," "le Salvage," "l'Enfant," "the Babe"; animal characteristics by "le Bacoun," "le Veel," "le Wolf," "the Fox"; nationality by "l'Engleys," "le Fleming," "le Lombard," "le Waleys."

Many of the early Anglo-Norman families assumed surnames after the Irish fashion by prefixing Mac to the names or other designations of their ancestors, as :

mac Þeórdair,
mac Seóinín,

mac an Míleasáda
mac an Riúighe;

but most of them retained their original surname in an hibernicised form, as : Oalatún for Dalton, Réamonn for Redmond, Norpeabárd for Herbert, etc. The Norman Fitz was replaced by Mac, as Mac Gearaitt, Mac Siomúin for FitzGerald, FitzSimon. English surnames ending in -s and son are similarly hibernicised; but Anglo-Norman patronymic surnames which had neither prefix nor filial desinence have the same form in Irish as the Christian name. The diminutive suffixes -el, -et, -ot, -in, -on, -oc, -uc, -kin, and -cock are represented in Irish by -éil,* -éio, -óio, -ín, -ún, -oc (óis), -uc (ac), -cín, and -cóc respectively.

The prefix "de" of Norman surnames is represented in Irish by "de," as de Búrc for de Burgh, de Léir for de Laci, etc. de is sometimes incorporated with the local part of the surname, as Oátún for de Autun, Oéabhrúr for d'Evereux, etc. de also sometimes stands for "de la," as de Múra for "de la Mor; or perhaps its English equivalent "atte Mor." "de la" itself, in the few instances in which it survives, is incorporated with the second part of the surname, as Oalaicte for "de la Hyde," Oalamara for "de la Mare." oe, pronounced oo, is possibly for the Norman "du," the equivalent before masculine nouns of "de la." The English "of" is, of course, represented by "a" in Irish, but "a" is sometimes a worn down "oe," as in a Blac, a Nöra. The English "atte," or "at the," is also represented in Irish by oe, as oe Óró for "atte Wode," at the wood. The n of the extended form, "atten," is attracted over to the second part of the name, as oe Nogla for "atten Angle," at the corner; oe Ñair for "atten Ashe," at the ash.

* Or éat. The usage is not uniform.

The Norman definite article "le" and the English "the," used with occupative and descriptive surnames, are both represented in Irish by oe, "le" having apparently been translated into its English equivalent "the" before the surname was hibernicised, as oe Þaoit for "le Whyte," the White, oe Blaca for "the Blake," the Black, oe Þorc for "the Fox," oe Úlub for "le Wolf," the wolf, oe Óaitéir, oe Óaitir for, "le Waleys," the Welshman, etc.

There was, almost from the first, a strong tendency to drop all these enclitic particles, and in many instances they had actually been dropped before the surnames to which they had been attached attained an Irish form; hence many of these surnames have no prefix in Irish.* Norman diminutives, it should be remarked, like Blanchet, Porcel, Russel, never took the article and consequently never take "oe" in Irish.

*This is true of nearly all English surnames which came in after the fifteenth century. In my list I have inserted oe in every instance where I had the authority of old Anglo-Irish records or the present spoken language for its use. oe should not be used before surnames derived from personal names. Norman diminutives, or Anglo-Saxon or Welsh nouns or adjectives.

§ 3—COGNOMINA USED AS SURNAMES

A small number of surnames are substantives in -ac, -eac, indicative of nationality, place of origin, fosterage, etc., as Uíreachaċ, Caománaċ, Oéireaċ, Muirneac, Ultaċ.

A few are descriptive adjectives, as Dán, Deas, Siar, Liat, Uairne, etc.

We have also a few surnames derived from place of residence, as an Ṭácaire, na Ḫriġoċ.

These three classes of surnames are merely cognomina substituted for the real surnames which are now lost or forgotten. Families bearing these surnames may be of either Irish or English origin.

§ 4—ALTERNATIVE FORM OF SURNAMES

Most of the patronymic surnames given above ( §§ 1-2) have a second form obtained by dropping O or mac and postfixing -ac (-eac) to the nominative case of the name of the ancestor,* as O Uílain or Uílanac, O Uíoin or Uíanaċ, O Nuallain or Nuallánaċ, Mac Súibne or Suibneac.

This form is also used in the case of surnames of foreign origin, as Céitinn or Céitinneac (Céitneac), Daipriġ or Daipriżżeac, Dalatún or Dalatúnac, Peitiv or Peitiveac. The prefix de is dropped when -ac is postfixed, as de Uúpc or Uúpcac, de Róirte or Róirteac. Surnames ending in -eal and -eap change these terminations into -eal and -eap before -ac is added.

The foregoing forms when standing alone have an indefinite signification and cannot, unless defined by the context, be used to indicate a particular individual.* To make them definite they must be preceded by the Christian name or a title, or turned into one of the forms mentioned in the remaining paragraphs of this section, as: Domnall Ó Ó Briain, Cóimac Mac Cártáis, Padraig Connúin, Éamonn de Búrc, Ualtan Caománaç, An tSeapais Ó Domnall, An Dochtúir Ó Loingsigh.

*When the name of the ancestor already ends in -ac (-eac) the termination is not repeated, as O Ceallaiġ; or Ceallaċ, O Cinnpealaġ or Cinnpealaċ.

The forms in -ac may also be made definite by prefixing the article and can then be used for a particular individual without the Christian name or title.† The form has then the force of the English Mr. when the Christian name is not expressed, as an Ógánaç, Mr. Barry; an Óbúrcáç, Mr. Burke; an Óbrianaç, Mr. O'Brien; an Suibneac, Mr. MacSweeny.

Another way of indicating a particular individual, without using the Christian name, is to prefix mac to the genitive case of the surname, as mac ui Ó Briain, Mr. O'Brien, mac ui Caoimh, Mr. O'Keffe, mac iñic an Óáirí, Mr. Ward. In this construction surnames commencing with mac are sometimes treated as if they commenced with ó, as: mac ui Séarait, Mr. Fitzgerald, mac ui Suibne, Mr. MacSweeny.

We have also corresponding forms of -ac-surnames with the article, as: mac an Ógraethnais, Mr Walsh, mac an Óbúrcáis, Mr. Burke; mac an Róisíns, Mr. Roche.

*In the case of surnames in ó and mac, the name alone was formerly used as the title of the chief of the name, as Ó Néill, (The) O'Neill, Ó Domnall, (The) O'Donnell; and it is still used as an honorary title in some families, as Ó Conchobair Donn, The O'Conor Don, mac Óigímaða, The MacDermott.

†This -ac form with the article was formerly used, in the case of surnames of foreign origin, to signify the chief of an Anglo-Irish family, and corresponded to the use of the surname alone in the case of native Irish chiefs.

§ 5—SYNOPSIS OF TYPES OF SURNAMES

It will be convenient to summarize here under different types the surnames of which we have so far treated.

VII.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{mac an Bál.} \\ \text{mac an tSeoir.} \\ \text{mac an Mileadá.} \\ \text{mac an Ridíne.} \end{array} \right.$		$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{mac an Úgáinac.} \\ \text{mac an Búrcac.} \\ \text{mac an Róipteac.} \end{array} \right.$
IX.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Ógán.} \\ \text{Ógáis.} \\ \text{Uiat.} \end{array} \right.$

§ 6—DECLENSION OF SURNAMES

In surnames of Types I, II, III, IV, V, and VII, the name or designation of the ancestor is in the genitive case and remains unchanged in the declension of the surname, except that its initial letter is sometimes aspirated or eclipsed, if a consonant, or has h or n prefixed, if a vowel. With this exception Mac and Ó alone change.

Ó, or uá, and Mac are thus declined :—

	Singular.	Plural.
Nom. and acc.	Ó    uá	í    uí
gen.	í    ui	ó    ua
dat.	ó    ua	ib    uib
voc.	a    ui	a    ui.
Nom. and acc.	mac	mic, meic, maca
gen.	mic, meic	mac
dat.	mac	macaib
voc.	a    mic	a    maca.

Ó, is the usual form in the nominative case, ui in the genitive. When the name of the ancestor begins with a vowel, n is prefixed after ó in the nominative case singular,* and n in the genitive plural. Ó sometimes aspirates p in the nominative case singular, and always eclipses in the gen. plural, if the name commences with an eclipsable consonant. ui causes aspiration in the singular. Mac sometimes aspirates the initial consonant of the name in the nominative case singular. The m of Mac is itself frequently aspirated in the nom. case singular after the Christian name ; always in the genitive case, and sometimes in the dative.

*There are a few exceptions.

EXAMPLES :

(a) Ùrìan Ó hAirt

Nom. and acc.	Ùrìan Ó hAirt
gen.	ainm Ùrìan uí Airt
dat.	as Ùrìan { Ó hAirt Ó Airt
Voc.	a Ùrìan uí Airt.

(b) Ùrìan Ó Domhnall.

Nom. and acc.	Ùrìan Ó Domhnall
gen.	ainm Ùrìan uí Domhnall
dat.	as Ùrìan Ó Domhnall
voc.	a Ùrìan uí Domhnall.

(c) Ùrìan Mac Domhnall.

Nom. and acc.	Ùrìan Mac Domhnall
gen.	ainm Ùrìan mic Domhnall
dat.	as Ùrìan Mac Domhnall
voc.	a Ùrìan mic Domhnall.

The plural forms of Ó and Mac are now met with only in place-names derived from clan or family names, as : Uí Cinnrealaig, Uí Ógána, Cúil Ó bFinn, Muinntir Ó nTóirná, i nAibh Laochaire. The modern collective plural of surnames of these types is formed by prefixing Muinntear, Clann, or Siol* to the genitive case of the name of the ancestor, as :

- Muinntear Ó Daoiçill, the O'Boyles ;
- Muinntear Ó hEalde, the O'Healys ;
- Muinntear Ó Raighallaiç, the O'Reillys ;
- Muinntear Ó Ruairic, the O'Rourkes ;
- Clann Ó hAilse, the MacAuliffes ;
- Clann an Óráirto, the MacWards ;
- Clann Ó Dáirmhada, the MacDermotts ;
- Clann Ó Sície, the MacSheehys ;
- Siol Ó Briain, the O'Briens ;
- Siol Ó Ceallaig, the O'Kellys ;
- Siol Ó Mórdha, the O'Mores ;
- Siol Ó hUighe, the Maguires.

Muinntear is used in the case of Ó-surnames ; Clann, with a few exceptions, is confined to Mac-surnames.

*Muinntear and Clann cause aspiration, Siol eclipsis.

Síol is now used only in literature. Muinntear and Clann are sometimes prefixed to the gen. case of the surname, as: Muinntear Uí Ceallaigh, the O'Callaghans; Clann Mhic Conmara, the MacNamaras.

The following examples show the declension of surnames in -ac (Types X, XIV, XV) :—

(a) An Caoimhnaic.

	Singular.	Plural.
Nom. and acc.	An Caoimhnaic	na Caoimhnaic
gen.	An Caoimhnaicis	na gCaoimhnaic
dat.	leir an gCaoimhnaic	leir na Caoimhnaicib
voc.	A Caoimhnaic	A Caoimhnaic.

(b) An tUírtáraic.

Nom. and acc.	An tUírtáraic	na hUírtáraic
gen.	An tUírtáraicis	na nUírtáraic
dat.	leir an tUírtáraic	leir na hUírtáraicib
voc.	A tUírtáraic	A tUírtáraic.

(c) An Sábhaoiriaca.

Nom. and acc.	An Sábhaoiriaca	na Sábhaoiriaca
gen.	An tSábhaoiriaca	na Sábhaoiriaca
dat.	{ do'n tSábhaoiriaca	leir na Sábhaoiriacaib
voc.	Leir an Sábhaoiriaca	A Sábhaoiriaca

Surnames of Types VI, VIII, XI, XII are not declined. All these surnames form their collective plurals like surnames in -ac, as: na Ógáiníos, the Barretts; teac na mBúrca, the house of the Burkes.

Surnames of Type IX follow the rule of adjectives. They form their plural like surnames in -ac.

Surnames of Type XIII are invariable. The plural is formed by prefixing Muinntear.

In surnames of Type XVI., mac alone changes.

A personal epithet, or cognomen, comes between the Christian name and the surname, and, if an adjective, agrees in case with the Christian name, as : O'onnall Ó hUí Bháin, bó O'onnall Ó hUí Bháin.

Sometimes the father's name, in the genitive case with mac prefixed, is inserted in the same position to distinguish persons of the same name and surname, as : O'onnall mac O'onnéadha Ó hUí Bháin; or the patronymic may follow the surname, as : O'onnall Ó hUí Bháin mac O'onnéadha. Mac always aspirates in this case. The mac is now usually dropped, but the aspiration remains, as : pátrias Tairbhs Óis Ó Conaill.

When two Christian names are used, the second is put in the gen. case, with its initial letter aspirated, —mac being understood if the father's name, and giolla if the name of a saint, as : Seán Þeadhraí Ó Néill, John Peter O'Neill.*

In the case of a double surname in English, as Patrick Sarsfield O'Donnell, Hugh O'Neill Flanagan, the first surname assumes the -ac termination, thus : pátrias Sáirbhéalaí Ó O'onnall, aoð níallac Ó flannagáin.

When a personal cognomen of the ancestor appears in the surname, it agrees in case with the name of the ancestor, as : Seán Mac Muirí Ruaidh, Tarbh Mac Conaill Óis.

An agnomen used to distinguish different branches of the same family agrees in case with the surname; in other words, it is in the same case as mac or Ó, as : Mágnur Mac Óigimara Ruad, Ó Conchobair Conn.

§ 7—SURNAMES OF FEMALES

Instead of Ó and mac, ni and ní respectively are used after names of females in surnames of Types I, II, III, IV, V and VII. ni is an abbreviation of ní

* This rule is not always observed by present-day Irish speakers.

(from insean, a daughter) and i or ui (genitive case of ó or ú) ; and Nic of ni mic.

| $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Eoghan mac Aodhaagáin,} \\ \text{Máire nic Aodhaagáin,} \end{array} \right.$ | Owen EganMary Egan.             |

The unabbreviated form ni mic is used in some places, as :

- |                                                                                                             |                         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|

níS is the form corresponding to mag, as :

- |                                                                                                             |                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|

Surnames of females are sometimes, like those of males, formed directly from the name of the ancestor, as :

- |                                                                                                                                |                                                        |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------|

It will be seen from the foregoing examples that in the surnames of females, except those formed directly from the name of the ancestor, the part of the surname following ni or nic is in all cases the same as that after ui or mic in the surnames of males. The reason of this is obvious, ni and Nic being contractions of ni ui and ni mic respectively.*

---

*Hence Eibhlís ní Ógáin, not Eibhlín ní hÓgáin, is the correct form.

In surnames of Types VI., VIII., XI., XII. and XIII., the form of the surname after names of females is the same as after those of males, as :

- |                                    |
|------------------------------------|
| { Seán Ó hAirtí, John Barrett      |
| { Peig Ó hAirtí, Peg Barrett.      |
| { Seán Ó Briún, John Brown         |
| { Máire Ó Briún, Mary Brown.       |
| { Réamonn Ó Róirte, Redmund Roche. |
| { Máire Ó Róirte, Mary Roche.      |
| { Éamonn Ó Óighe, Edmond Bride     |
| { Eibhlís Ó Óighe, Ellen Bride.    |

Surnames of Type IX., being adjectives, are aspirated in the nominative case, as : Máire Ó Liag, Mary Green.

Surnames of Types X. and XIV., that is, all surnames ending in -aċ, may be either substantives or adjectives. When the surname is an adjective, its initial letter is aspirated in the nominative case after names of females, as :

- |                                   |
|-----------------------------------|
| { Seán Ó hPeastnáċ, John Walsh    |
| { Cáit Ó hPeastnáċ, Kate Walsh.   |
| { Seán Cártaċ, John MacCarthy     |
| { Siobán Cártaċ, Joan MacCarthy.* |

The following forms corresponding to Type XVI. may be used as equivalent to the English Miss when the Christian name is omitted :—

- |                                       |
|---------------------------------------|
| Íngéan Uí Óbriain, Miss O'Brien.      |
| Íngéan an Cártaig, Miss MacCarthy.    |
| Íngéan Mhic an Óáirn, Miss Ward.      |
| Íngéan an Óigartaig, Miss Fitzgerald. |
| Íngéan an Óúrcairg, Miss Burke.       |
| Íngéan an Róirteig, Miss Roche.†      |

*This was first pointed out to me by the late Canon O'Leary (Ἄντωνις Πελαγής), who, when the first edition of this book was passing through the press, kindly sent me the following note on the Introductory Chapters which he had read :

"I have just one remark to make. In the case of women's names I have heard 'Siobán Cártaċ,' not 'Siobán Cártaċ,' and 'Cáit Ó hPeastnáċ,' not 'Cáit Ó hPeastnáċ.' That is to say, when the surname is an adjective it agrees with the noun like any adjective. When the surname is not an adjective I have heard exactly what you say, i.e., 'Peig Ó hAirtí,' not 'Peig Ó hAirtí.' Instead of 'Máire Ó hPeastnáċ' I have heard 'Máire an Ó hPeastnáċ,' where the surname is treated as a definite noun."

†But not Íngéan de Óúrcair, Íngéan de Róirte, &c.

The same construction may be used to express Miss with the Christian name, as :

मार्य, इंजेन आि उभाइन, Miss Mary O'Brien.
ईब्लिन, इंजेन अन उर्पिचाई, Miss Eileen Burke.

Mrs. may be similarly expressed, as :

वेन आि उभाइन, Mrs. O'Brien.
वेन अन उर्पिचाई, Mrs. Burke.
वेन मीक अन उलिंह, Mrs. Ward.
वेन शेइन आि उभाइन, Mrs. John O'Brien.
वेन टार्ड मीक अन उलिंह, Mrs. T. Ward.
वेन ईमुइन वे रॉयर्टे, Mrs. Edmund Roche.
मार्य, वेन मीक अन उलिंह, Mrs. Mary Ward.
कैट, वेन शेइन वे उर्पि, Mrs. Kate Burke, or Mrs. John Burke.*

In the case of a widow, वाइंट्रेलैस (वाइंट्रेलैथलैस) is to be used instead of वेन, as :

वाइंट्रेलैस शेइन आि उभाइन, Mrs. John O'Brien.
वाइंट्रेलैस ईमुइन वे उर्पि, Mrs. Edmund Burke.
वाइंट्रेलैस अन उर्पेट्स्नाई, Mrs. Walsh.
मार्य, वाइंट्रेलैस अन रॉयर्टिई, Mrs. Mary Roche.

Married women retain their maiden name in Irish. We may therefore say : मार्य नी उभाइन, वेन शेइन वे उर्पि, Mrs. John Burke, née Mary O'Brien.

नी and नीक do not change in the genitive case.

§ 8 – SURNAMES IN THE SPOKEN LANGUAGE

Surnames are variously corrupted in the spoken language, and deviate in many important respects from the standard or literary form, but it would be impossible within the limits of a short introduction to deal with this aspect of the subject in detail. The corruptions and variations of ओ and मैक, as they affect a large number of surnames, may however be briefly noted.

*But not वेन उर्पेट्स्नाई, वेन वे उर्पि, वेन वे रॉयर्टे, &c. which are incorrect.

O, or U, is corrupted as follows :

1. Sometimes shortened to A, as : A Teórláin for O Teórláin, A Sním for O Sním.
2. Sometimes altogether dropped, as : Caoimhán for O Caoimhán, Catárais for O Catárais.
3. Sometimes replaced by the gen. case Uí, as : Uí Flóinn for O Flóinn, Uí Laochaire for O Laochaire.
4. Sometimes prefixed to surnames to which it does not properly belong, as: O Tiolúin for Tiolúin, O Sosán for Sosán, O Róirte for de Róirte.

The following are the corruptions and variations of Mac and Mas :—

1. C or S attracted over to the name of the ancestor. This happens when the name of the ancestor commences with a vowel or H or with L, N, or R, or with a consonant aspirated after Mac or Mas. The name of the ancestor is then treated in all the forms of the surname as if it commenced with C or S. Examples :—

mac Captáin for mac Aptáin
 mac Ceośain for mac Eośain
 mac Coitip for mac Oitip
 mac Sirait for mas Rait.

Hence such forms as : bár an Coitipis for bár an Oitpis; an Ceośnac for an tCeośnac; na Ceośnais for na nCeośnais.

2. M in some places always aspirated after the Christian name, as : Eoghan Mas Aoða, Séamus Mas Flóinn, Domnall Mac Suibne; and sometimes entirely dropped, as : Séamus 'ac Conraoi. The c of Mac is also very frequently aspirated, as Éamonn 'ac Sičis.

3. Sometimes takes the form má, má, mé, the c or g being attracted over as above, as: má Slóinn for Mágs Flóinn, má Síonnán for Mágs Fionnán, má Súidín for Mágs Uídín, má Sprait for Mágs Rait, mé Súbán for Mágs Óubán.
4. Takes the form a when m is dropped and c or g attracted over, as: Táðs a Cionnraæctaig for Táðs Mac Ionnraæctaig.
5. Sometimes c or g alone retained, as Cairbirtin for Mac Aibirtin, Cuilein for Mac Uilein, Síonnçail for Mágs Fionnçail.
6. Sometimes made Mágs, Mágs, as: Mágs Cochlán, Mágs Sáffraín.
7. Sometimes Móc, Móg, and then, by the dropping of the initial m, óc, óg, uac, uag. When in this case c or g is attracted over, the final form is the same as in O surnames. Examples:—

Ó Catmhaoil for Mac Catmhaoil.
 Ó Ceaçmhaercasig for Mac Eaçmhaercasig
 Ó Ceoínín for Mac Seoínín.
 Ó Ciúrtáin for Mac Siúrtáin.
 Ó Coimnaill for Mac Domnaill
 Ó Connéadá for Mac Donnéadá.
 Ó Cuptáin for Mac Cuptáin.
 Ó Sruada for Mágs Riada.
 Ó Sruaigc for Mágs Ruaigc.
 Ó Subán for Mágs Óubán.
 ua Coibicín for Mac Hoibicín.
 ua Sorheacstaig for Mágs Oireacstaig.

8. In a few instances simply replaced by O, as:
O filibín for Mac Flúibín, O Siúrtáin for Mac Siúrtáin, O Suibne for Mac Suibne.
9. Frequently replaced by the genitive case Mic or 'ic, as: Séamur Mic Seoínín for Séamur Mac Seoínín, Séamur 'ic an Þranncaig for Séamur Mac an Þranncaig.
10. In Omeath, Mac Giolla is corrupted to ma'l, as ma'l Þáðraig for Mac Giolla Þáðraig, ma'l Coille for Mac Giolla coille.

Corruptions and variations of individual surnames, especially when they are reflected in the anglicised form, are noted as they occur in the lists.

§ 9.—INTERCHANGE OF SURNAMES.

1. Some Irish families have two surnames, each derived from a different ancestor, or one derived from the name and another from a designation of the same ancestor, as :—

Ó Maolruanaða and Mac Óláirmháða,
Mac Connaga and Mac Siðða,
Mac Giolla Íðárdhaig and Mac Séadraig,
Mac Siomoinn and Mac an Ríðige.

2. Some families of foreign origin have two Irish surnames, one an hibernicised form of the foreign name and the other a patronymic formed from the name or a designation of the ancestor, as :—

Connúin and Mac Máigeóis,
Óalamara and Mac Noinneabairiño,
Óe Búic and Mac Uilliam,
Stonúin and Mac an Mhileadhá.

3. Nearly a dozen families have two surnames one commencing with Ó and another with Mac, followed by the same ancestral name ; but whether both surnames are derived from the same ancestor, or from two different ancestors of the same name, it is impossible to say. Examples :—

Ó Caoċáin and Mac Caoċáin,
Ó Coolatáin and Mac Coolatáin,
Ó Seanċáin and Mac Seanċáin.

4. A few families have besides their surname a cognomen which is sometimes used instead, as :—

Ó Duinnfhléibhe and Ultáċ.

All these double surnames were used interchangeably, so that the same person might be called indifferently by one or the other, irrespective of the anglicised form. In the majority of cases only one surname is now retained; but as the anglicised form is, in many instances, derived from the one that has become obsolete, there is often apparently no connection between the anglicised form and its present Irish equivalent. Thus the surname Fitzpatrick is derived from mac Siolla Íáir, but the present Irish equivalent of Fitzpatrick in many parts of the South of Ireland is mac Séarta or mac Séarta, a new surname which the Fitzpatricks took from an ancestor named Geoffrey or Séarta mac Siolla Íáir. Similarly the Birminghams are called in Irish mac Feóraír from an ancestor named Piers de Birmingham.

Besides the interchange of totally distinct surnames, our Irish name system admitted, with considerable latitude, of the substitution one for another of different forms of the same surname, and even of different surnames of the same or somewhat similar meaning. Hence we find the following classes and variants of surnames sometimes interchanged :—

1. Surnames of the same signification though differing in form, as :

mac Cárliúr and mac Cártaíl (Cárliúr and Cártaíl, each == Charles).

mac an mHáidair and Ó mHáidairín (both from mHáidair, a dog).

2. A surname and its diminutive, as :

mac Órluaidheadá and mac Órluaidhín.

Ó Laétna and Ó Laétnán.

Ó Scannail and Ó Scannlán.

3. Surnames derived from different diminutives of the same root, as :

Ó Órlanán and Ó Órlanagáin.

Ó Ciapáin and Ó Ciapagáin,

Ó Dubháin and Ó Duibhín,

Ó Riacháin and Ó Reicín.

4. Surnames derived from different genitive forms of the same name, as :

Ó pearnsura and Ó pearnsuir.

Ó fiaci and Ó feicé.

mac an Óigeacháin and mac an Óigeatáin.

5. Variants of the same surname owing to aspiration, attenuation, and interchange of letters, as :

mac Domhnaill and mac Ó Domhnaill.

Ó Uíolcáin and Ó Uíoleascaíin.

Ó Deapáin and Ó Dioipáin.

Ó macéain and Ó mocáin.

6. A standard or literary form and a corrupt or spoken form, as Ó Muirgearpáin and Ó Uíospáin.

Ó Caoimhealbáin and Ó Caoimhlioibáin.

Ó heiríomhceoil and Ó Uíomhceoil.

7. An older form and a more modern one, as :—

mac an Áiríennis and mac an Oíriúennis.

mag Áiríeacstaig and mag Oíreacstaig.

A discrepancy (similar to that mentioned above) between the anglicised form and its present-day Irish equivalent often results from the interchange of these forms.

§ 10.—ANGLICISATION OF SURNAMES

The various ways in which Irish surnames have been anglicised may be enumerated under the following heads :

1. Phonetically.
2. By translation.
3. By attraction.
4. By assimilation.
5. By substitution.

1. Phonetically.—This was the method almost exclusively adopted when surnames were first anglicised.* The surname was written down more or less as it was pronounced, but without any regard to the Irish spelling, as :

O'Brien for Ὀ ଭ୍ରିଏନ,
 O'Callaghan for Ὀ କେଲାକାନ୍,
 O'Donoghue for Ὀ ଡାନ୍କାଥା,
 O'Flanagan for Ὀ ଫଲାନାଙ୍ଗାନ୍,
 O'Neill for Ὀ ନେଇଲ୍.†

The same Irish surname often gives several very different anglicised forms owing to dialectical variations and the vagaries of the phonetic system employed to represent them, as :

ଓ କୋବ୍ରାଇସ୍, Coffey, Cowhey, Cowhig, &c., ଓ ଦୁବ୍ରାଇସ୍, Duffy, Dowie, Dooey, Duhig, &c.

On the other hand, very different Irish surnames have sometimes the same anglicised form, as :

Coffey for ଓ କୋବ୍ରାଇସ୍, ଓ କାତ୍ବାଠା, ଓ କାତ୍ବାଠାଇସ୍, ଓ
 କାତ୍ମୋଙ୍ଗା.

In many instances the anglicised form has in course of time been contracted, as : O'Hare for O'Hehir, O'Kane for O'Cahan ; and not unfrequently only a part of the original form is retained, as Ryan for O'Mulryan. Most surnames have been mutilated by dropping Mac or O', and Mac when retained in usually, but improperly, written Mc or M'.

*Most Irish surnames were anglicised during the second half of the 16th century (1550-1600), and appear for the first time in an English dress in the State documents of that period. The anglicisation seems to have been the work of Anglo-Irish government officials possessing, in some instances at least, a knowledge of the Irish language. The present anglicised forms, generally speaking, date from that period.

† It may be remarked that the anglicised form was in most instances originally much nearer the Irish pronunciation than at present, owing partly to a change in the sound of the English letters, and partly to the corruption of the Irish forms. Thus O'Brien and O'Neill were originally pronounced O'Breen and O'Nail.

2. Translation.—During the last and the preceding century, many families rejected the old phonetic rendering of their surnames and adopted instead an English surname which was supposed to be a translation of the Irish surname. These “translations” are, in most instances, incorrect. The following are examples of translated surnames :—

Ó Úrúic	translated	Badger,
Ó Úrúacáin	„	Banks,
Ó Caðain	„	Barnacle,
Ó Maorlheannaca	„	Blessing,
Ó Maigcais	„	Ryder,
Ó Úrúadán	„	Salmon and Fisher,
mac an tSaoir	„	Carpenter, Freeman
mac Conraoi	„	King,
mac Conrnáma	„	Forde,
mac Seáin	„	Johnson.

The translated form sometimes takes an English termination, as :

Ó Órlaighneáin	translated	Thornton,
Ó Sáoirín	„	Wyndham.

3. Attraction.—A surname of comparatively rare occurrence is often attracted to, and confounded with, a better known surname of somewhat similar sound existing in the same locality, and instead of its proper anglicised form assumes that of the better known or more numerous surname. The following are examples :

	Anglicised	attracted to
Ó Bláthmáic,	Blawick, Blowick,	Blake,
Ó Óraon,	O'Brien, Breen,	O'Brien,
Ó Duibhíoarma,	O'Dughierma, Dooyearma,	Mac Dermott,
Ó hEogháin,	O'Hoghegan,	Mageoghegan,
Ó Maoil Seaclainn,	O'Melaghlin,	MacLoughlin.

It must be remembered that a surname of comparatively rare occurrence in one district may be quite common in another, and vice versa, and that consequently the attracting surname in one locality may be itself attracted in another.

4. The custom of assimilating Irish to foreign names is old in Ireland. During the Middle Ages Irish scholars writing in Latin, instead of latinising the Irish names with which they had to deal, often simply substituted for them well-known Latin names of somewhat similar sound or meaning. Hence we find such substitution as Cornelius for Conchobhar, Eugenius for Eoghan, Thaddaeus for Taodh, Virgilius for Peargal, etc. This practice was well known in the sixteenth century, and was frequently followed in the anglicisation of Irish Christian names. Nearly all the anglicised forms of this kind existing at present were already in use in the time of Elizabeth, the only important exceptions being Jeremiah for Tiarnan, and Timothy for Taodh, which only came into use about half a century later.

The extension of the practice to surnames is of still later date, few traces of such anglicisation being found earlier than the middle of the seventeenth century. The principal cause of the change of these names, according to O'Donovan, was the ridicule thrown upon them by English magistrates and lawyers, who were ignorant of the Irish language; but an anxiety on the part of the people themselves to get rid of uneuphonious or otherwise undesirable surnames doubtless operated in the same direction. The following are examples of surnames anglicised in this way :

Broderick for Ó Broinnsaigh,
 Carleton for Ó Cailealláin,
 Harrington for Ó hAonghaistí and Ó Mongaistí,
 Reddington for Ó Riadaicáin,
 Summerville for Ó Somaicáin.

In a few instances the assimilation is to a French surname, as :

De Lapp for Ó Lapáin,
 De Moleyns for Ó Maoláin,
 D'Ermott for Ó Duibhdeóimha.

5. Substitution.—Substitution differs from assimilation only in degree. The similarity between the Irish surname and its English equivalent is in this case much more remote; very often there is no connection whatsoever. The following are examples :

Clifford for Ó CLÚMÁIN,
 Fenton for Ó FIANNACHTA,
 Loftus for Ó LAÉTNÁIN,
 Neville for Ó NIADÓ,
 Newcombe for Ó NIADÓIG.

It sometimes happens that the natural phonetic rendering of an Irish surname has, when Ó or MAC is dropped, the same form as an English surname, as : Ó Ógearáig, Barry ; MAC AN ÓSÁIGH, Ward ; Ó DUACALLA, Buckley.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Lists of Christian Names.—The names contained in these lists are of three kinds, viz.: (1) names at present in use, of whatever origin, but well-known abbreviations and pet names are not always included; (2) names which, though now obsolete, were at one time in use under an anglicised form and which it may be considered well to revive; and (3) names of Irish saints taken from the Martyrology of Donegal. These have not been in use as Christian names within English-speaking times, but they might now under the influence of the Gaelic revival very appropriately be given as baptismal names to Irish children. Every name on these lists is, therefore, a genuine Christian name, either in use at the present time or at some period in the past.

List of Surnames.—The surnames included in this list are of three kinds: (1) modern literary or standard forms; (2) older forms, now obsolete or obsolescent; and (3) corrupt forms in use in the spoken language. It will often be necessary, in order to avoid confusion, to use the spoken form in preference to the literary or standard form. The older forms are included mainly for historical reasons. In general, the aim has been to give all the genuine variants of each Irish surname—any form, in fact, that might be used in addressing a letter. In the case, however, of certain classes of variants, where, without greatly increasing the size of the book, it would be impossible to insert all, the uniform use of one of the variants was considered sufficient, the alternative form or forms being mentioned here. Ó is used instead of ua throughout. The combinations rc, rr, rt are, with a few exceptions which explain themselves, used instead of rs, rb, ro respectively. The uninflected form maoil- is used instead of maoil- when followed by a broad vowel in the next syllable. Dub- in similar circumstances is generally used instead of Ó níbh-. -éil and -éin are used instead of -éal and -éan respectively in the final syllable of Norman surnames. The alternative forms treated of above (pp. 21, 22) are not included, except in a few instances and for some special reason. See also remarks on p. 9, note.

The English or Anglicised Forms.—The arrangement is the same for both Christian names and surnames. The Irish name or surname is followed by the English or anglicised form or forms. Variants of the latter are separated only by commas, as :

AOINÉAN, Aedan, Aidan, Edan.
Ó BÁRDAÍN, Bardan, Barden, Bardon.

But distinct names or surnames, when there are two or more corresponding to the same Irish name or surname, are separated by semicolons, as :

BRIAN, Brian, Bryan ; Bernard ; Barnaby, Barney.
Ó BRADDAÍN, Bradan, Bradden ; Salmon, Sammon ; Fisher.
